1. What is the research study about?

This research study aims to investigate the use and development of energy systems modelling software in order to better inform the development of open-source energy system modelling tools. Of particular interest are the factors influencing how end-users choose energy system modelling software and how developers perceive the factors influencing these decisions. The study adopts a broad definition of energy system modelling, which includes modelling of any energy system or sub-system including physical, market or financial components.

2. Who is conducting this research?

The study is being carried out by the following researchers: Nicholas Gorman, Iain MacGill and Anna Bruce from the Collaboration on Energy and Environmental Markets, School of Electrical Engineering and Telecommunications and School of Photovoltaic and Renewable Energy Engineering at UNSW Sydney.

Research Funder: No external funding

3. Inclusion/Exclusion Criteria

Before you decide to participate in this research study, we need to ensure that it is ok for you to take part. The research study is looking recruit people who meet the following criteria:

1. 18 years of age or older
2. In the last 12 months have worked on studying/modelling the Australia National Electricity Market using energy system modelling software

Participants who meet the following criteria will be excluded from the study:

1. Under the age of 18 years

4. Do I have to take part in this research study?

Participation in this research study is voluntary. If you do not want to take part, you do not have to. If you decide to take part and later change your mind, you are free to withdraw from the study at any stage.

5. What does participation in this research require, and are there any risks involved?

If you agree to participate you will be asked to complete the following research procedures.

Interview: An online video interview, you will be asked questions about the energy system modelling software that you use, how you choose energy system modelling software and general background questions about your work. The interview will take place on zoom and will take approximately 30 to 60 min. With your permission the research team would like to audio record the interview. If you do not wish to be recorded but you would like to participate you can advise the research team and written notes will be taken. You will receive an initial reminder and one follow up reminder.
